

COALITION OF IMMOKALEE WORKERS

¡Un Centavo Más! One Penny More!

They've won better wages from
Taco Bell, McDonalds & Burger King.
Now they're taking on Subway!

You can meet them in New York City on the 60th Anniversary of International Human Rights Day.

COME HEAR FLORIDA TOMATO PICKERS SPEAK OUT

Wednesday, December 10, 7:30 P.M.

The Church of the Holy Trinity

316 E. 88th Street, between First & Second Avenues

THEY'LL speak about working conditions in the fields and their campaigns to get fast food chains to agree to pay them just one cent more per pound (nearly doubling their wages).

The tomato pickers currently receive from growers who supply Subway about 40 cents for a 32-lb. bucket, a mere 1.3 cents per pound. They must pick 120 buckets, or nearly 2 tons of tomatoes per day, to earn $50 in a 10-hour day.

At a RECEPTION, you can talk to the workers & learn from the co-sponsoring food justice groups.

C.I.W. is welcomed to New York City by

Congregation B'nai Jeshurun

Faith Leaders for Food Justice

Hazon

The New York City Coalition Against Hunger

New York Faith and Justice

The Peace and Restorative Justice Community of the Church of the Holy Trinity

Restaurant Opportunities Center of New York (ROC-NY)

Rural & Migrant Ministry on behalf of the Justice for Farmworkers Campaign

United Food and Commercial Workers Union Local 1500

World Hunger Year (WHY)

To learn more about the Coalition of Immokalee Workers campaign for economic justice, visit their website: <http://www.ciw-online.org>.

Preceding the event, at 6:30 P.M., the Church of the Holy Trinity, will celebrate a Candlelight Eucharist that will include a reading of the United Nations' Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

Who can endure the day of his coming? I will be swift to bear witness against those who oppress the hired workers in their wages (Malachi 3:2,5).